- Create separate controller files for different screens
- Use magic strings and web config file
- Separate api service and business logic
- Use DbContext(better)
- Use switch statements instead of if-else